

I am writing to urge the FCC to NOT expand LPFM to take priority over FM translator service. I listen to station K-LOVE on 88.1 in Omaha, NE. Losing K-LOVE to LPFM would impact thousands of people who listen to the station as a primary source of news and information. My local K-LOVE station serves the community by providing information about free local events. Many of these events are not publicized elsewhere and the public not be aware of them. As a college student with a young daughter, I appreciate information about events in my community that are free for our family. I also appreciate the positive music played by this station. It is very difficult to find media that I can trust to play on the radio with my two-year-old in the car. I never worry when listening to K-LOVE that she will hear something offensive or graphic. If an LPFM station displaces K-LOVE, I will likely not have access to quality, family-friendly programming on the radio. Many members of the community will be unaware of events offered by organizations in the area. We will not have access to the diverse news stories offered by K-LOVE from other areas. The service offered by K-LOVE is in the public's interest because it offers an alternative to other stations NOT offering family-friendly content and because it keeps us abreast of local events free in our community. PLEASE, don't allow LPFM to expand its service and disrupt my KLOVE station!

Thank-you,

Kristina Beckner
